

Join in the anniversary celebrations by nominating your favourite CILIP

The nominations will help a panel of expert judges come up with a Top 10 for each award. The Top 10s will be announced in April and a public vote will decide a favourite for each award. The winners will be announced at a special award ceremony on 21 June 2007.

Anyone can nominate their favourites for the anniversary celebrations - you don't have to be a CILIP member.

Visit the following sites for a full list of past winners:

Planning has begun on a range of Anniversary activities for 2007 including:

An online public vote to decide the nation's favourite Carnegie and Kate Greenaway winners of all time.

A range of publicity material featuring all the past winning books

An online living archive containing details of past winners and short-listed titles, including author profiles, interviews, video clips and images.

Events at literary festivals across the UK, including the Carnegie International Festival to be held next year in Dunfermline.

Special anniversary projects with a range of organisations including Seven Stories: the centre for children's books in Newcastle.

An online Anniversary shadowing ideas kit for schools and public libraries, including reader development activities, visual literary packs and ways to critically engage with past winning titles.

A special award ceremony and party on 21 June 2007, at which the 2007 winners will be joined by past winners
